

Higher Education Weekly News Clips
January 14-21, 2011

UW private revenue streams up – Puget Sound Business Journal – January 20, 2011

Gates ed-tech fund opens second round – Puget Sound Business Journal – January 20, 2011

Everett seeks branch campus from WSU, not UW – Herald Net – January 20, 2011

Higher education officials brace for cuts – Stateline Staff Writer – January 20, 2011

Alaska Airlines offers \$700K for UW arena naming rights | Puget Sound Business Journal – January 19, 2011

The Financial Aid Information Gap – Inside Higher Ed – January 19, 2011

CBC's math problem more than just numbers – Tri-City Herald – January 19, 2011

Author to discuss immigration at WSUV – Columbian – January 19, 2011

The Budget Breakdown: Trimming higher ed may erode job opportunities – The Seattle Times – January 18, 2011

In a tough economy, new focus on job-oriented certificates – The Seattle Times – January 18

Study: Students slog through college, but don't gain much critical thinking – The Seattle Times – January 18, 2011

House committee doesn't object to suspension of education initiatives – Kitsap Sun – January 18

Senate considers letting universities name their own price – TVW/Capitol Record – January 18

Student tracking finds limited learning in college – The Seattle Times – January 18, 2011

Community college funding jumble – The News Tribune – January 18, 2011

College expands program of free tuition – Seattle Times – January 14, 2011

Nonprofit online university could ease space crunch – Seattle Times – January 14, 2011

Organization honors 5 WSU researchers – The Spokesman-Review – January 14, 2011

