- All activities must align with Students First – listen to what they say they need
- Collaborating to create a pipeline of services that spans K-College promotes long-term student success
- Clear expectations with partners regarding their role in program delivery and data collection improves results
- Measuring program impact and program quality to improve student outcomes and experiences are critical
- 1:1 Advising is critical for some students, but not all—high-utilization services can have impact too
- Training professionals substantially increases the number of students served
